

SCOPE Copyright Specifications

All the productions published on SCOPE are legally protected.

Attempts to copy part of or the entire work will incur administrative or even juridical penalties.

Before submitting an article to SCOPE, authors should make sure they own the copyright of the article. If there are subsequent copyright disputes from other platforms, author themselves should bear the subsequent responsibility.

After a work is published by SCOPE, SCOPE and the writer own the copyright of the work. If authors want to submit the same work to another platform, they should first obtain the approval of SCOPE's editors.
